SECRET/SECURITY INFORMATION

25X1

- 3. No foreign nationals, male or female, were employed in either the Bielitz-Heilstaette units or in the 653rd. all German employees were replaced by Soviet male and female civilians and enlisted personnel in the Winter of 1951-1952.
 - a. The Soviet Voyentorg, sales store, in Bielitz-Heilstaette had five German salesgirls. However, the Voyentorg was outside the compound, and these girls had a special pass permitting them to enter only the Voyentorg. They were not allowed inside the military compound or other military buildings.
 - b. No foreign nationals lived in the compound, maneuver area or other military installations.
- 4. The GOFG Medical Instructors' School had a Secret Document Section under the command of the school Executive Officer, Captain (fnu) LAPENKO. An unidentified Soviet female civilian was in direct charge. The section was in the back part of the office occupied by Captain LAPENKO and the Soviet civilian female. A two-meter-high partition with a metal door and grill separated the secret document room from Captain LAPENKO's office. There were no guards at the door of the document room. A steel field safe and two filing cabinets were inside the secret document room. To the best of my knowledge, all correspondence, orders, directives, regulations, T/O & E, charts, supply lists, plans, and sketches were classified and stored there.
- 5. The 653rd Aviation Maintenance Base had a secret document section in its Headquarters office, next to the office of the Executive Officer, Senior Lieutenant (fnu) DIDENKO, who headed the document section.

 A Soviet female civilian was in charge of all documents. In November 1952, the Soviet female civilian went on leave and Senior Sergeant (fnu) FILIMONOV replaced her.

No one was allowed to remove a document from the secret document section. Any person receiving an order or checking on some directive had to read the document in the section. Documents were classified secret and top secret and had registry numbers. When documents were released to individuals, they were placed in envelopes and sealed with wax at three points along the edge of the flap and at the other two seams on the back.

9. All troops could own cameras without special authorization or registration. They were prohibited from taking photographs of weapons, equipment, or any military installations (barracks, supply dumps, garages, etc.). Films had to be developed in the PX. It was forbidden to take the films to German stores.
